

CELL AND SOCIAL MEDIA EXPLOITATION

Course Description: In this three day course attendees will be exposed to basic investigative techniques using cellular and social media records. We will discuss in detail the records offered by each major social media platform and cellular company. The course will further cover such topics as basic cellular theory and function, how to properly and legally obtain cellular and social media records, examination and exploitation of call details records, cellular mapping techniques, pen registers, trap and trace, global positioning, call records research, and the use of electronic surveillance. At the completion of this course the attendee should be familiar with call detail records from each of the major cellular companies and how to use them in all types of criminal investigations.

Attendees should bring a laptop with Excel loaded on it and a thumb drive for this course.
